Section I.c Enrollment

Provide the number of students in the teacher preparation program in the following categories. Note that you must report on the number of students by ethnicity and race separately. Individuals who are non-Hispanic/Latino will be reported in one of the race categories. Also note that individuals can belong to one or more racial groups, so the sum of the members of each racial category may not necessarily add up to the total number of students enrolled.

For the purpose of Title II reporting, an enrolled student is defined as a student who has been admitted to a teacher preparation program, but who has not completed the program during the academic year being reported. An individual who completed the program during the academic year being reported is counted as a program completer and not an enrolled student.

Additional guidance on reporting race and ethnicity data.

Section I.d Supervised Clinical Experience

Provide the following information about supervised clinical experience in 2012-13.

Average number of clock hours of supervised clinical experience required prior to student teaching	100
Average number of clock hours required for student teaching	640
Average number of clock hours required for mentoring/induction support	0
Number of full-time equivalent faculty supervising clinical experience during this academic year	1.21
Number of adjunct faculty supervising clinical experience during this academic year (IHE and PreK-12 staff)	1.03
Number of students in supervised clinical experience during this academic year	40

Please provide any additional information about or descriptions of the supervised clinical experiences:

At Nebraska Wesleyan University 1.0 FTE equates to an individual with a 12 credits of teaching assignment. One student teacher equals .75 of one load hour for one endorsement and up to .5 of one load hour per endorsement if carrying multiple endorsements. Practicum supervision has load credit assigned based on the load hour in which students enroll. For a 1 hour lab course, the supervision of all enrolled would be the responsibility of the assigned faculty member and the faculty receive one load credit.

Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

Knowledge and use of technology is well integrated into the Nebraska Wesleyan University education curriculum. Students are required to take Education 187, Instructional Technology where they learn how to use data bases, wireless telecommunication, augmentative communication software and literacy and mathematical support software. Students learn to collect, manage and assess data in their methods courses, using a variety of assessment tools. In several courses in the Education Department curriculum, students are required to submit materials using LiveText, a document and data management system. The three principles of Universal Design for Learning - multiple means of representation, action/expression and engagement – are woven throughout several courses, particularly in special education. In both Sped. 107 (Understanding Human Differences) and Sped. 207 (Methods for Teaching Adolescents with Disabilities) students are taught these main principles and participate in online learning modules through CAST. Additionally, they evaluate lesson plans to examine how the principles are applied at their grade level or in their content area. During special education student teaching, Wesleyan students are required to attend one of each: SAT, MDT and IEP meetings. They are also required to show competency in writing an IEP during student teaching. Nebraska Wesleyan students learn to use the SRS system during Sped. 257 (Legal Issues in Special Education) and use the SRS system to write an IEP during student teaching.

Section VI Teacher Training

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request.

Does your program prepare general education teachers to:

- teach students with disabilities effectively
Yes
- participate as a member of individualized education program teams
Yes
- teach students who are limited English proficient effectively
Yes

Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares general education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

Students at Nebraska Wesleyan University have many opportunities to show competence in their abilities to work with diverse populations, including students with exceptionalities. When students take literacy methods courses, for example, they also take the literacy adoption course. A similar procedure is utilized in connection with the math methods course. In these methods courses, students receive instruction on research-based methods of pedagogy that work for all students but that are particularly effective for students with exceptionalities. Sped. 107 (Understanding Human Differences) is an introductory course that teaches students how to awareness of individual education plans. In some of the special education courses there are conversations about strategies that work for students who have limited English skills and students with language processing issues, as some of these strategies overlap. Our students participate in field experiences and practica in inclusive classrooms. All education students take Ed. 185 (Education in a Pluralistic Society), a course that addresses diversity in the classroom and community and that examines equity issues faced by people with exceptionalities. In relation to special education and the law, Nebraska Wesleyan University students learn basic information in Ed. 1 (Introduction to Education in the United States) and learn to implement instruction and meet students' needs in the methods courses.

The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

Students interested in teaching careers enroll in Ed. 1 (Introduction to Education in the United States) so that they have a better basis for making the decision to teach. As they enroll in Ed. 1 they also enroll in Ed. 75 (Field Experience) so that their decision to continue with education or not is also based on some experience with working with young people. In order to be accepted into the Teacher Education Program, students must earn at least a 2.5 GPA, pass the PPST according to state standards and pass the mental abilities assessment, speech clearance and moral turpitude standards described by the Nebraska State Board of Education. To achieve student teacher status, students must earn a 2.75 GPA in their major, along with a 2.60 GPA overall. Students must also have completed at least 75% of the coursework in their major and provide documentation of at least 100 hours of working with young people in various school settings.
