2014 Application

The Nebraska Food Project: Origins. Options. Impacts is a traveling educational and professional development experience for Family and Consumer Sciences, Health Sciences, Agriculture Science and School and Career Counselors at middle through senior high school levels. The Nebraska Food Project is about agricultural food production for human consumption and its origins, options and impacts. The experience is designed to increase classroom educators' awareness and knowledge of the impact that Nebraska has on the human food industry through the exploration and discovery of career opportunities in food production, from the local to the global level.
