Background Information:

Through this continuing contractual arrangement, the Bureau of Sociological Research (BOSR) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will attempt to contact via telephone all special education students who exited school during the 2009-10 school year for one of the following reasons: graduated with regular diploma; received a certificate of completion; aged out; or, dropped out. The data analysis and data reports resulting from the telephone interviews will be compiled by BOSR and submitted to NDE for use in responding to the federal (IDEA 2004) regulation requiring states to collect and report state and district-wide post-school outcomes data on students with disabilities formerly attending school districts. This data is required to be reported to the federal Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) as relates to the six year State Performance Plan (SPP) and the Annual Performance Report (APR) for Part B, IDEA. Additionally, the post-school outcome data will be shared with the participating districts. This is the fifth contract in the five year cycle.
