

Title: Collaborative Resume Writing

Grade: 9

Career Development Model:

Career Planning & Management

Nebraska Career Readiness Standards:

- Communicates effectively & appropriately
- Contributes to employer & community success
- Manages personal career development
- Manages personal career development

Objective:

- Students will evaluate sample resumes.
- Students will create their own resume.

Materials and Supplies Needed:

- Al Kahalic handout (copies needed). Download this bad resume from: <http://app.crc.ufl.edu/services/jobsearch/documents/badresume.pdf>
Note: The “answers” and recommendations are on the pages following the example.
- “Example Resume from Student” handout (copies needed).
- Resume Template (if desired).
- Pen, pencil.
- Laptop/device and internet.

Class Instructions:

Part 1

1. Break students into pairs and distribute the “Al Kahalic” resume sample to each pair. Give each pair 5-10 minutes and ask them to find everything they believe is wrong with this resume. Do not prepare students too much for this activity, just let them go and see what they come up with. Students will likely be able to find several of the problematic elements present in this resume, and the class discussion of the problems provides a useful sense of what students already know.
2. Bring the class back together and have each group point out at least one thing they found wrong with the resume. It is preferable to have a somewhere to write down the problems students generate, whether a board, butcher paper, smart board, etc. On the original “Emily Employable” bad resume below several of the resume's problems are listed in a bulleted list at the bottom. Teachers could and should add to this list, possibly by asking students "what else should you not do on a resume?" Possible additions/points could include:

- a. No word art, clip art, or colored text
- b. No photos
- c. No spelling errors
- d. No slang

3. As a class, brainstorm what should be included on a resume. Once again, write down the ideas students generate wherever this is typically done in your classroom. Generally resumes should include the following (though students may generate many other ideas):

- a. Contact information
- b. Objective
- c. Education
- d. Work experience
- e. Should describe what a student did at a particular job.
- f. For younger people, less formal forms of work may sometimes be included here (e.g. if a young person has regularly babysat, has worked for his or her parents company, or has worked at a family restaurant).
- g. Activities
- h. During high school that demonstrate leadership abilities, strong interests, or responsibility.
- i. Honors and awards

Part 2

1. Contingent on the length of the discussions above, which could easily take 30 minutes, the lesson could potentially end at point 3. Teachers are strongly encouraged to actually make students create a resume they can use. Students will benefit, and it will give teachers a chance to evaluate what students did or did not retain and understand from the resume discussion. To do so, teachers should prepare their own resume beforehand to help them remember the set of steps to use when making a resume. There is really no way to lay out a one size fits all set of resume steps here, but having some set of steps in mind will probably be necessary to teach students. A considerable amount of time will likely be spent helping students one-on-one or in small groups.

- A sheet designed to guide students in the information necessary on a resume is provided in the lesson.
- An example resume that someone who just graduated high school might have, is provided below, in word format so that a teacher can modify it anyway they like. Some students may be able to almost copy this resume in Word.

2. Instruct students to use Activity Resumes at EducationQuest:
<https://www.educationquest.org/resources/activitiesresume/>

3. Instruct students how to create a resume and e-Portfolio at Nebraska Career Connections:
<http://www.nebraskacareerconnections.org/students-highSchool.htm>

Objective

A want a good job that pays lots of money!

The objective should be a concise statement regarding the type of position you are seeking. Click here for examples.

Experience

The second part of your resume should be your education.

1985–1990 Ferguson and Bardell Southridge, WA

District Sales Manager

- Increased regional sales.
- Managed 250 sales representatives in 10 Western states.
- Made training course for new recruits — speeding profitability.

The experience section should list job titles, dates, organization, location and description. Use action verbs and write in the past tense. Be sure that each statement refers to either skills you gained, thing you were really good at, and impacts you had in the job. Avoid using non-descript fragments and emphasize transferable skills. Click here to view a possible example.

1990–1994 Arbor Shoes Southridge, WA

National Sales Manager

- Increased sales from $50 million to $100 million.
- Doubled sales per representative.
- Suggested new products.

Be sure that your experiences are listed in order of most recent.

- Developed a training course.

Education

1999-2004 University of Florida Gainesville, FL
B.A., Business Administration and Computer Science.

Decide which is more important to the employer, the degree or the institution:

- If degree, then list the degree title first and the graduation date.
- If institution, then list school first and then location.

This section should be after the objective. Click here for an example listing.

Interests

Southridge Board of Directors, running, gardening, carpentry, computers, going to clubs, playing the flute.

This section could be replaced with a section on Skills rather than interests. Although personal interests may be important to you, they may not interest the employer. A Skills section may better promote you as a candidate. Click here for some examples of skills.

Tips

~~I am a hardworking, fast learning, individual who will get the job done.~~

I am a team player!
