

Free, Distance
Learning Course!

Heads Up! Reading in Nebraska

Learn:

- The newest ways to help children develop a love of books, from the leading experts.
- How reading and writing skills develop, and how to create environments and curriculum that nurture development of these skills.
- Important vocabulary and what the reality is behind many myths surrounding early literacy.
- How to involve families in supporting language and literacy development in young children.
- The best books to use to give children a running start!

Earn:

- State Licensing Inservice Hours - The course's 30 clock hours may be used toward annual training requirements for child care licensing. Participants may attend one, all, or any number of sessions.
- CEU's - Apply the course hours to either attain or renew the CDA credential or to meet other professional development goals.
- College Credit - Number of credits varies with college. See your facilitator or check the Website. (Participants are responsible for tuition costs at participating colleges.)
- Rule 11 - To fulfill the requirement for mandatory 12 credit hours to meet Rule 11.

Classes will be held at the following time and place:

Location:

Address:

Room:

Time:

Whom to contact for information:

Phone/Room #:

HeadsUp! Reading is brought to you by the National Head Start Association in cooperation with RISE Learning Solutions™ and the Council for Professional Recognition. In Nebraska, HeadsUp! Reading is sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Education, Head Start - State Collaboration Office, the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and their partners, and with support from the Nebraska Head Start Association and Community Development Institute.