

The National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Education were written and revised by the National Association of State Administrators of Family and Consumer Sciences (NASAFACS) to promote the study of family and consumer sciences. Content is designed to empower individuals and to foster life span development and career preparedness. Standards were published in partnership with the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences.

For more information, visit www.aafcs.org and click on "National Standards."

Family and Consumer Sciences Education

National Standards Executive Summary

---

Content for Human Literacy:

- * Individual Empowerment
- * Life Span Development
- * Career Preparedness