| Procedures & Routines | Teachers, this lesson is being written as if you have a class set (or 1 for every 2 students) of iPads, laptops, or access to a computer lab. Please plan ahead. If you are unable to have access to a whole class set, this lesson could be adjusted to do whole group. |
| Gradual Release of Instruction | (Day 1) Anticipatory Set: Ask students, "Have you ever done a scavenger hunt? Use some think alouds to get your students thinking about if they’ve ever hunted or looked around for something. Introduce this lesson and explain to the students that they are going to work in pairs as investigators/detectives to answer clues for family friendly places that can be found in Nebraska! |

| Explain this is where they will find the answers to the clues. (M) Pair students up, mixed ability, to work together at a computer or iPad and pass out the recording sheet. (M) Pull up the "My Family is Nebraska Lesson 4" power point that has the clues. (M, S) Read the first clue to the students and model for them how to look through the family fun activities to find out which place the clue is leading them to. Have students enter the key words indicated in the PowerPoint to narrow their search in the Quick Search box. (M, S) Remind students not to blurt out places; that part of the fun is letting all the pairs of students be investigators at their own speeds. Once the teacher has walked all the students through finding the first answer, the teacher can move onto the next clue, then the next, and so on. (S, G) Direct students to write down their answers on their "My Family is Nebraska" recording sheets. (G, I) Teacher should circulate the room and monitor to ensure students are staying on the correct spot on the website. The teacher will have to decide at which pace to move through the clues.

After the students have completed their investigation and have all of their answers written down, the teacher can pull up the answer power point to show the students pictures of the answers. (M, S)

Depending on how fast your students find the answers to the clues will determine how many days you'll need to complete this investigation. ☺

| Summary | Students will take their recording sheet home and have a conversation with their families about places they want to visit in Nebraska. Teachers may also choose to connect a writing activity to this lesson once students have explored places to visit in Nebraska with their families. Teachers could also do an extension activity-requesting students and families take pictures at any Nebraska landmark and bring them in to share with the class.
