

Internet Resources for Entrepreneurship Educators

Best Use of the Internet in Classrooms

The Internet classroom of today allows for more "real world" access. Entrepreneurship educators must teach both theory and practice. Through extended learning experiences such as job shadowing, focused site visits, and more, students can be in actual contact with successful entrepreneurs and companies. For rural America, the Internet provides a fantastic tool for students to research business opportunities, learn about successful entrepreneurs, access information for developing business plans and see best practices from company web sites.

Ideas to Incorporate the Internet in the Entrepreneurship Classroom

- ❑ Teach the fundamentals of web design to allow students to design mock business sites
- ❑ Focus web instruction on the differences and similarities between traditional marketing and web marketing
- ❑ Incorporate student presentations of web pages for their proposed businesses into the curriculum
- ❑ Use search engines for students to do inquiry learning on entrepreneurial topics
- ❑ Encourage using email to write to companies requesting information on mission, products/services, opportunities
- ❑ Use the Internet to research how banks and other financial businesses serve entrepreneurs (financing, business services, etc.)
- ❑ Investigate and assess the availability of local, state, and national assistance for entrepreneurs (business planning, funding sources, managerial best practices, etc.)
- ❑ Use the Internet to conduct marketing research for proposed business ideas

Internet Resources Notes

Web sites are ever-changing. It is imperative that before sharing a web site for students to use for research, that content is examined carefully for appropriateness. There are a wide variety of web sites devoted to topics of value to entrepreneurship students as well as entrepreneurs. This list of websites contains links to sites which are not maintained by or under the control of the State of Nebraska.

Technical problems with outside links, other than a link that has been moved or changed, should be reported to the entity that maintains the site, not to the Nebraska Department of Education.

However, if you feel that the content of an outside link is inappropriate, or would like to suggest resources/topics to include in this resource list, please contact Gregg Christensen, Nebraska Entrepreneurship and Career Education Specialist, gregg.christensen@nebraska.gov.

The sites on the following pages are listed alphabetically by general category.
