Core Competencies for Early Childhood Professionals

Nebraska’s Core Competencies for Early Childhood Professionals is dedicated to all adults committed to supporting the learning and development of young children through partnerships with their families and providing high quality early childhood programs, services and experiences.

Introduction

Core Competencies are:

What all adults who work with children need to know, understand, and be able to do to support children’s development and school readiness.

In 2006, the Nebraska Core Competencies Leadership Team was convened to initiate development of core competencies for teachers/caregivers in the early childhood field. The Core Competencies Leadership Team was made up of early childhood education professionals from across Nebraska.

The Leadership Team met and agreed on a common definition for core competencies, defined guiding principles for the core competencies, provided some of the initial framework for what the essential areas of knowledge and skills the early childhood field needed, and provided guidance on the number of levels needed for Nebraska Core Competencies. Nebraska’s core competencies are divided into six core competency skill levels. This booklet provides the knowledge and skills from level one, the level for those entering the field.

Nebraska’s core competencies are divided into nine areas of knowledge and skill competencies. Each of the nine areas contains six levels that range from the skills and knowledge of a beginning professional to the more advanced skills and knowledge possessed by someone with a master’s degree.

Vision for Nebraska’s Core Competencies

All children have caregivers and teachers who are well prepared, knowledgeable and have the tools they need to advance children’s learning and development.

Purpose of Core Competencies

- Define what early childhood teachers/caregivers need to know and be able to do to provide quality care and education.
- Serve as part of the foundation for Nebraska’s professional development system.
- Help early childhood programs, directors and teachers/caregivers define professional development needs.
- Define the levels of competencies of the professional development system from entry level skills through advanced academic preparation and years of experience in early childhood programs.
- Allow professionals to evaluate progress from one level to the next through a combination of training, education and self-assessment.
Nebraska’s Core Competencies Are Voluntary

The competencies, skills, and levels described are voluntary for those working in the early care and education field. Programs, directors, teachers, family child care home providers and others are encouraged to use the document as they find helpful.

People might want to use them to help in making hiring decisions, writing job descriptions, assessing staff skills, identifying professional development goals, and designing training and in-service programs that can advance the skills and knowledge of those working with children. There are multiple uses for this document to benefit the early childhood field.

Benefits of Having Core Competencies

A. Providers, teachers, caregivers, and other practitioners can:
   - Evaluate their own current level of knowledge
   - Identify areas of training/educational needs
   - Determine training/professional development that can meet those needs
   - Identify potential career paths they can pursue

B. Directors or administrators can:
   - Specify levels of training/education for individual jobs
   - Develop more completed job descriptions based upon the competencies defined for the early childhood field
   - Help staff develop professional development plans
   - Plan educational or training opportunities that will best serve the needs of the staff.
   - Provide guidance for a salary scale based upon levels of competency
   - Appraise job performance of staff

C. Higher Education faculty members can:
   - Design courses to ensure students are able to demonstrate mastery of the competencies
   - Coordinate content to facilitate transfer and articulation of college coursework

D. Trainers or training organizations can:
   - Understand the knowledge and skills necessary for professionals
   - Evaluate audiences to determine levels of knowledge and skills
   - Build evaluation components into training to demonstrate competencies
