Providing Support to Students and Staff

"Teach Hope to All, Despair to None."
Abraham Lincoln

Key Considerations

- How may I help you?
- What are the most important things I can help you with?
- Tell me about what is worrying you....
- I am hearing that you are worried about ...
- I understand your concerns a lot of students feel that way.
- It is very normal to be sad, angry, upset, worried, frustrated....
- I hear what you are saying about....

Maybe we can discuss some things we can do to help...

ADVICE

ASSISTAN

- It is a difficult situation, and I do understand it is very challenging. Let's discuss if there is anything you can do to make the situation more tolerable.
- Would it be helpful to discuss possible solutions?
- The things we are doing to support you and your classmates are...
- It can be overwhelming, so maybe we can talk about how to manage the feelings.

Reflective and Clarifying Comments

- From what you're saying, I can see how you would be ...
- It sounds as if you're saying ...
- It seems that you are ...

- Tell me if I'm wrong, but it sounds as if you ...
- Am I right when I say that you ...

GUIDANCE

Supportive Comments / Empowering Comments

- No wonder you feel ...
- It sounds really hard ... I'm really sorry this is such a tough time for you.
- It sounds as if you're being hard on yourself. We can talk more tomorrow if you'd like.
- What have you done in the past to help feel better when things got difficult?
- What do you think would help you to feel better?
- I have an information sheet with some ideas about how to deal with difficult situations. Maybe there's an idea or two here that might be helpful for you.
- People can be very different in what helps them feel better. When things get difficult for me, it helps if I ... Could something like that work for you?

Listen, Protect, Connect, Model and Teach

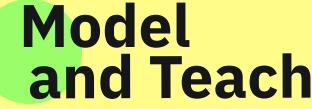

- Establish rapport and convey empathy.
- Listen and pay attention to what they say and how they act (watch nonverbals)
- Let them express feelings and listen for cues that they are having a hard time.

Protect (

- Re-establish feelings of physical and emotional safety.
- Maintain daily routines and structure with clear and consistent expectations and feedback.
- Answer questions simply and honestly (clear up confusion).
- Provide opportunities for students to talk, draw, and play.
- Talk to the students about what is being done by the school and community to keep everyone safe from harm.
- Watch for anything in the environment that could retraumatize your students.

- Help students re-establish normal social relationships and connections with others.
- "Check-in" with students on a regular basis.
- Find resources that can offer support to your students and classroom.
- Keep communication open with parents, other teachers, coaches, etc.
- Encourage participation in school and community activities.
- Provide opportunities for students to work collaboratively with friends on projects.
- Empathize by allowing students more time to learn new material. Build on strengths.
- Remind students that major disasters, crises, and emergencies are rare. Discuss times they have felt safe.

REMEMBER

- Demonstrate that you can effectively cope with the stress despite the fear or loss you may experience.
- Demonstrate how people can come together to cope after a difficult situation.
- Be aware of your own thoughts, feelings, and reactions about the event.
- How you cope and behave after an event will influence how students cope and behave. Students are watching you for both verbal and nonverbal cues.
- Avoid having conversations students may hear.
- Cue students to use positive coping strategies.
- Help students problem-solve to get through each day successfully.
- Help students set small "doable" goals.
