New School Nurse Training Modules

In order to prepare nurses for the upcoming 2022-2023 school year, Children's Hospital & Medical Center, in partnership with the Nebraska Department of Education, is offering free online training to Nebraska school nurses. These self-study modules contain information that is important for achieving a knowledge base to practice as a nurse in the unique school environment. These modules can be accessed by any school health office staff needing a review of the current best-practices.

The modules were created by a team including the Children's School Health Liaison and School Nurse Coordinator, school nurses, school nurse administrators, and many state-level experts. They are intended to supplement training offered by school districts. You can find the New School Nurse Training modules under the "Health" section of the Answers4Families Classroom website.

Full instructions on how to access these modules are detailed in the following pages. Once logged on, you will find a variety of school health topics to learn. We welcome you to explore these modules, pictured below, and also encourage you to sign up for our live training events where we will cover this content in more detail.

For more information, please contact Andrea Riley, School Health Liaison at anriley@childrenshospital.org.
