Supervised Clinical Experience

Note: The clinical experience requirements in this section are preloaded from the prior year's IPRC. Teacher preparation providers will enter the number of participants each year.

Provide the following information about supervised clinical experience in 2021-22. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(C\)\(iii\), §205\(a\)\(1\)\(C\)\(iv\))

Are there programs with student teaching models?

Years required of teaching as the teacher of record in a classroom

All Programs
Number of full-time equivalent faculty supervising clinical experience during this academic year (IHE staff) Optional tool for automatically calculating full-time equivalent faculty in the system	4
Number of adjunct faculty supervising clinical experience during this academic year (IHE staff)	5
Number of cooperating teachers/K-12 staff supervising clinical experience during this academic year	47
Number of students in supervised clinical experience during this academic year	37

Please provide any additional information about or descriptions of the supervised clinical experiences:

1. Clock hours required for student teaching are a minimum of 16 weeks – 640 hours and 20-weeks – 800 hours. Our response reflects the average of those requirements. 2. The response provided above reflects faculty directly engaged with candidates in supervised clinical experience which, in Nebraska, is defined as the student teaching experience.

Enrollment and Program Completers

In each of the following categories, provide the total number of individuals enrolled in teacher preparation programs for an initial teaching credential and the subset of individuals enrolled who also completed the program during the academic year.

Race/Ethnicity	Total Enrolled	Subset of Program Completers
Two or more races	3	0
No Race/Ethnicity Reported	2	0

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2021-22.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

What are CIP Codes?

No teachers prepared in academic year 2021-22

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (<https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55>).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2021-22. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. \(\$205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\)\)

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

Program Assurances

Note: This section is preloaded from the prior year’s IPRC.

1. Program preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

☒ Yes

☐ No

2. Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

☒ Yes

☐ No

3. Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

☒ Yes

☐ No

☐ Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

☒ Yes

☐ No

5. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

☒ Yes

☐ No

6. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

☒ Yes

☐ No

7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

☒ Yes

☐ No

8. Describe your institution’s most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

(1) Midland University’s approach to liberal arts education is working from the marketplace back. In education, we seek feedback from regional school administrators. First- and third-year teacher surveys sent by the Nebraska Department of Education provide feedback around our graduates’ performance. Midland’s first- and third-year graduates also complete this survey. We analyze the results to determine program strengths and opportunities for improvement. Additionally, MU maintains communication with area districts regarding teaching needs and hosts an interview fair for MU student teachers. We continue to work with our Educational Service Unit and use their workplace feedback to inform our program decisions. We partner to help our students train for and earn a local substitute permit which provides valuable substitute teachers for area schools and equally valuable experience for our students. Field based experience and Midland supervisor visits also provides our department with front-line knowledge of current trends. (2) Field based experience is developmental, building on previous experiences and continuing to increase responsibility and interaction with PK-12 learners. Students participating in FBE work directly with teachers to understand the thinking process associated with making many instructional decisions in a short period of time. Students bring these experiences back to campus classes where they debrief and reflect on what they have learned and how it connects with their coursework. (3) All MU students working toward special education endorsements complete methodology coursework. Elementary students complete methods coursework in language arts, math, science, social studies, art, music, and physical education. Secondary students complete coursework in reading and writing in the content area and general secondary methods. FBE and Clinical Experience also provide students with authentic preparation to instruct in core academic subjects. (4) All students are required to take SPD296 Introduction to Special Education. In this course students are required to know, understand, and use major concepts, theories, principals, and research-related development of children. This transfers into constructing appropriate learning opportunities that support individual students' needs. Students also participate in field-based experience for this course, working with at least one student with special needs. In EDU270 Instructional Design, all MU students plan a minimum of three lessons where differentiation is an assessed component. (5) Beginning in 2018, the Walker School of Education's Program Mission was revised to include the words "prepares culturally responsive educators". While it seems impossible for our teaching population to mirror the diversity of student population, culturally responsive educators make adjustments in their instructional approach to include learners with diverse backgrounds and experiences. In EDU190 Topics in Education students are given an overview of working with students with limited English proficiencies by observing in ESL classrooms and processing/reflecting with the classroom teacher. Students enrolled in EDU220 Multicultural Education learn more specifically about how diversity informs teaching practice and student interaction, including research-based instructional practices that work well for second language students. In EDU220, students spend 10 hours in a diverse classroom where they work with a variety of students and participate in classroom activities with the teacher and students. Students and cooperating teachers then process what was seen in the classroom, so MU students can understand the thinking and rationale behind the decisions the cooperating teacher made throughout the lesson(s). In the college classroom, students participate in conversations about the dimensions of multicultural education, culturally responsive teaching practices, the educational implications of diversity, as associated implicit biases. (6) Working with students from low-income families, much like working with ESL students, is a thread that runs through all of our MU education courses. Students in EDU190 Topics in Education are given an overview of working with students from low-income families through field-based experience and guest speakers. Students in EDU275 Classroom Management spend time studying how poverty impacts student motivation. In ECE155 Children, Family, and Community, students work on building family and community partnerships that support and empower families. In EDU340 Developmental Reading, students learn to use concepts from reading, language, and child development to teach reading, writing, speaking, viewing, listening, and thinking skill to help all students be successful. (7) All MU education courses are taught through the framework of preparing culturally responsive educators who can build a culture of learning, understand content, plan and deliver effective instruction, support all learners, and model professionalism. Our students are fortunate to have access to field-based experiences in a variety of schools – urban, suburban, and small-town/rural. Through this variety of field-based experience placements, students work with teachers and their instructors to unpack the hallmarks of each type of school, the experiences with students, and the teacher thinking/decision-making required in each setting. When students apply for certification, they generally have more field-based hours than required. This demonstrates our commitment to preparing teachers to be successful in all types of schools.

Annual Goals: Mathematics

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

Annual Goals: Instruction of Limited English Proficient Students

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

Assessment Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. \(§205\(a\)\(1\)\(B\)\)

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Does your program prepare teachers to:

a. integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction

☒ Yes

☐ No

b. use technology effectively to collect data to improve teaching and learning

2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

Midland University's Walker School of Education program prepares teachers to use technology to complement their daily instruction. Technology for Teachers (EDU204) is a requirement for all education students. In this course students discover, explore, discuss, and evaluate multimedia tools that support curricular objectives. Topics in this course also include: the SAMR model for technology integration, the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE) standards, effective components of a flipped classroom, the ethical use of technology in the classroom, and communicating electronically with parent/guardians using tech tools. The instructor of this course is an expert which provides opportunities for relevant and authentic connections between the Midland classroom and PK-12 classrooms. Students continue to integrate technology in EDU270 (Instructional Design) by incorporating technology into the lesson plans that enhance the lesson and give students the opportunity for practice. Formative assessment via technology is also integrated into lesson planning through EDU370 (Assessment for Learning) and methods courses. Midland students infuse complementary technology in their lessons that follow UDL principals (providing multiple means of representations, action and expression, and engagement) throughout their program of study. Students also use technology to document, analyze, and graphically represent student achievement data in their Teacher Work Sample document during Clinical Experience. Midland University supports all students' equitable access to and experience with technology by providing an iPad and Apple Pencil to all students through its 1:1 iPad initiative. In addition, faculty are encouraged to improve their instruction by exploring and implementing promising practices that leverage technology to improve student learning via the Midland Master Medallion Instructor program. This also includes inspiring students to positively contribute to and responsibly participate in a digital world through learner-driven activities and collaboration.

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program.

Teacher Training

1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

Midland University teacher candidates are required to successfully complete SPD296 - Introduction to Special Education where they learn the historical and philosophical perspectives of instructional delivery models appropriate for special education students. They also focus on the general education teacher's responsibilities in the identification, MDT, and IEP processes. In EDU410, the seminar that accompanies Clinical Experience, students participate in an IEP meeting and reflect upon the experience as a component of their culminating portfolio.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

Midland University teacher candidates learn that the general education teacher must follow the IEP when teaching a student who has been identified for special education services. The general education teacher must communicate effectively to develop and update the IEP document. All teacher candidates participate in an IEP meeting (as a requirement of EDU410) within their clinical experience.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

Midland University teacher candidates have multiple experiences to learn about and teach students with limited English proficiency. In EDU190 students study effective ways to work with students (and families) with limited English proficiency. They also are able to observe diverse classrooms and talk with ESL teachers. Teacher candidates can also take additional courses that focus on ESL, including ESL100 Introduction to ESL and ESL150 Cross Cultural Communication. Secondary teacher candidates take EDU381 Reading and Writing in the Content Area, where field-based experience focuses on ESL populations. All students have the opportunity to earn an additional endorsement in ESL that focuses on the PK-6, 7-12, or PK-12 grade band.

2. Does your program prepare special education teachers?

☒ Yes

☐ No

If yes, provide a description of the activities that prepare special education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

Midland University teacher candidates are required to successfully complete SPD296 - Introduction to Special Education where they learn the historical and philosophical perspectives of instructional delivery models appropriate for special education students. They also focus on the special education teacher's responsibilities in the identification, MDT, and IEP processes. In EDU410, the seminar that accompanies Clinical Experience, students participate in an IEP meeting and reflect upon the experience as a component of their culminating portfolio. In addition they take the following courses: SPD233 Methods and Materials in Special Education, SPD242 Collaboration and Inclusive Learning Environments, SPD247 Early Childhood Special Education, SPD252 Special Language Impairment and Learning Disabilities, SPD353 Assessment and Behavior Interventions, SPD355 Lifelong Planning for Exceptional Learners, SPD358 Legal Issues and Program Development, SPD368 Identification of Children with Disabilities, SPD369 Multidisciplinary Team and Individual Education Plan. In these specialized course teacher candidates review K-12 instructional strategies that meet the needs of all exceptional learners as identified within the IEP. Teacher candidates identify and use specialized curriculum, equipment, materials, and assistive technology. They also review legal cases and issues pertinent to special educations and their implications for program development. Teacher candidates study the special education evaluation process - from referral to placement - and examine state and federal requirements for the process, timelines, and structures for all disability categories.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

Midland University teacher candidates learn through specific coursework that special education teachers must follow the IEP when teaching a student identified for special education. Additionally, both the special education teacher and general education teacher must be actively involved as collaborative team members in developing and updating the IEP document.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

Midland University teacher candidates have multiple experiences to learn about and teach students with limited English proficiency. In EDU190 students study effective ways to work with students (and families) with limited English proficiency. They also are able to observe diverse classrooms and talk with ESL teachers.
