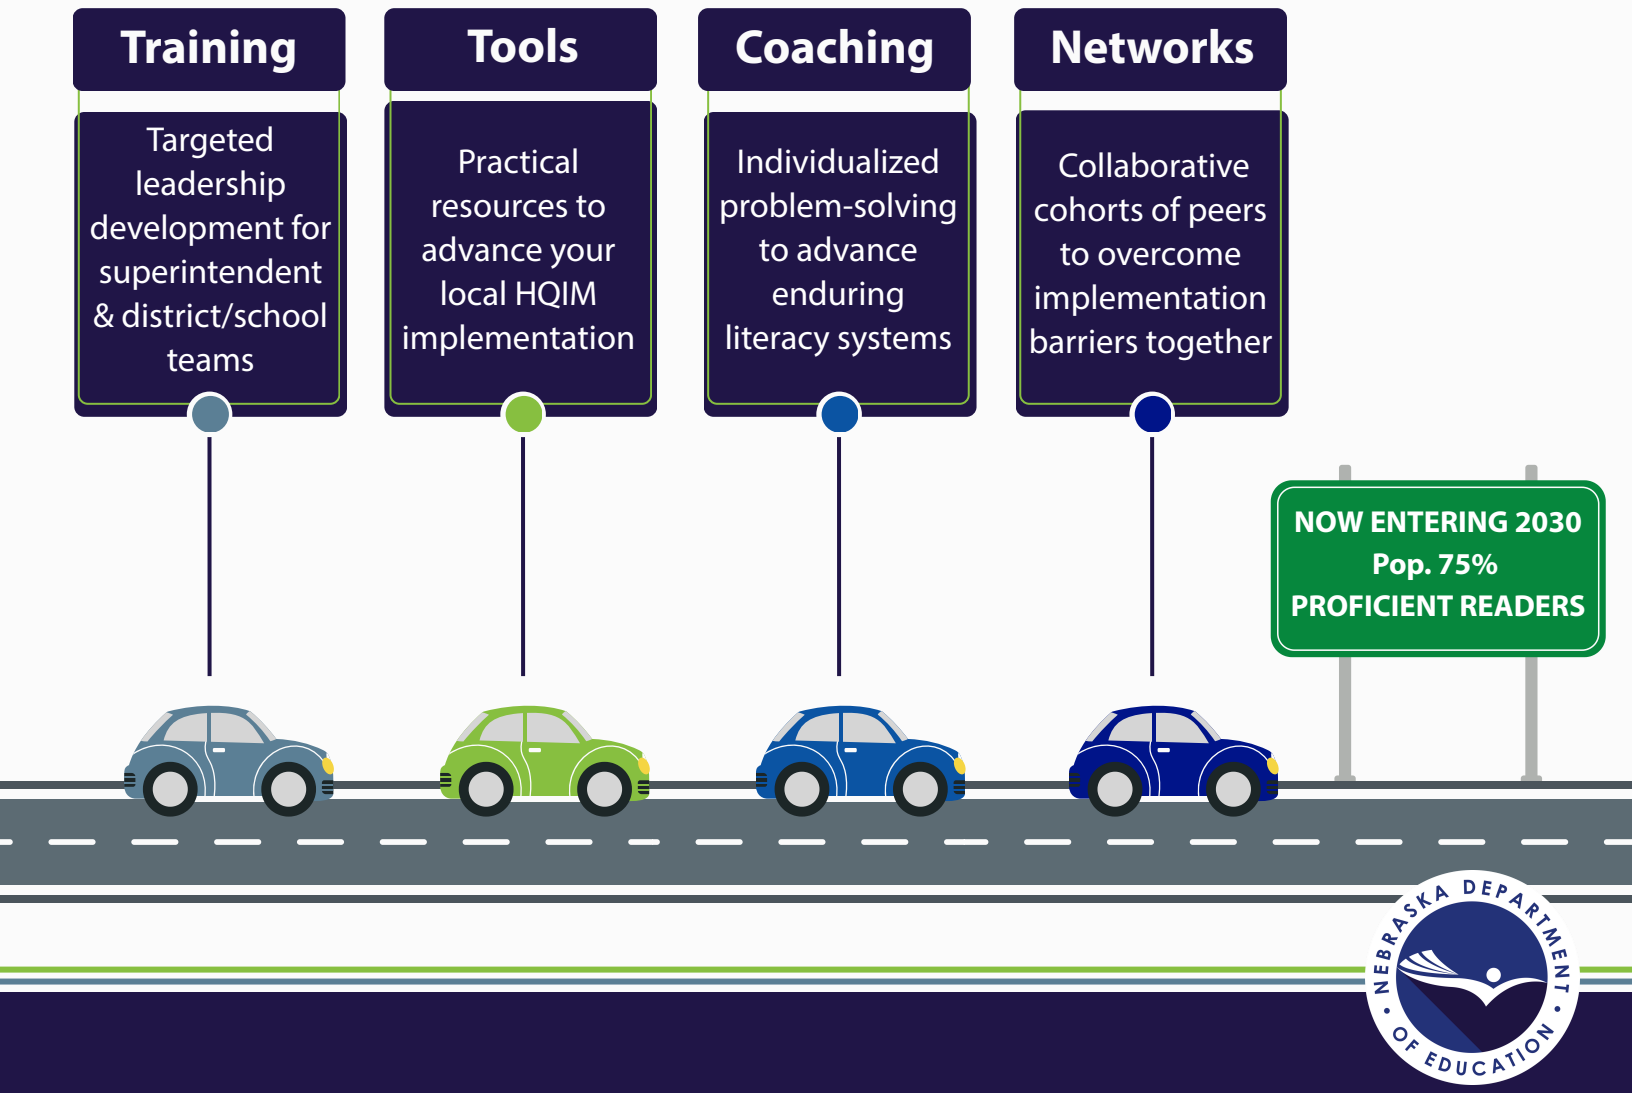
Nebraska Leads Literacy

The next stop on Nebraska's road to reading proficiency

Since 2018, the Nebraska Department of Education (NDE) has worked with districts to strengthen statewide literacy, including adopting rigorous literacy curriculum and expanding access to training in the science of reading. Now, as we work toward the transformative milestone of ensuring 75% of Nebraska's 3rd graders are proficient readers by 2030, that commitment continues through Nebraska Leads Literacy (NLL).

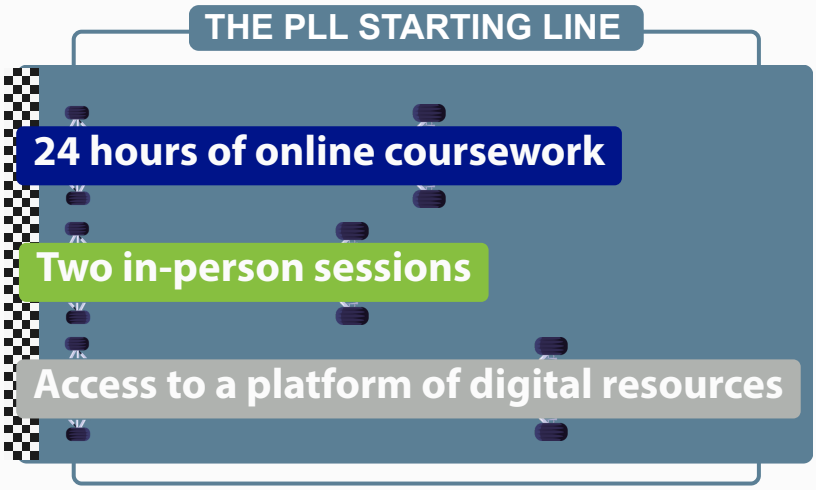
What is Nebraska Leads Literacy?

In Nebraska, literacy is the foundation of lifelong learning, opportunity, and success. Each district, school, and classroom has an uncompromising commitment to ensuring that every child in our state receives the world-class literacy instruction they deserve. Nebraska Leads Literacy (NLL) is an initiative that equips leaders to implement and sustain systems for evidence-based literacy instruction through NDE-sponsored:



Buckle Up for AIM Pathways to Literacy Leadership

The first leg of the NLL journey begins with the AIM Pathways to Literacy Leadership (PLL) course. Tailored for instructional leaders, this course reinforces best practices for effective language and literacy instruction. Superintendents are encouraged to assemble a team of building leaders to participate together. As an added benefit, principals who complete the course gain eligibility for individualized coaching. Learn more here.*



Priority Lane Access

By stepping onto the road early in the first wave of the AIM PLL course, your district will receive:

- School leadership training
- Priority access to future state-funded PL and coaching for your teachers and school leaders
- Early access to statewide data tools and implementation toolkits
- Eligibility for an NDE-sponsored book distribution for a school(s) in your district
